

Casey MacGill's Blue 4 Trio

Casey MacGill's Blue 4 Trio performs music that swings. Nat "King" Cole Trio meets the Mills Brothers. Fats Waller meets Fats Domino. Slim Galliard meets Fred Astaire. It is music of many decades and no decade in particular, all happening at the same time, woven into a seamless, beautiful whole. At the core of this group's sound are the band's sometimes sweet, sometimes rough-hewn three-part harmony vocals and a piano-ukulele-bass-and-drums rhythm section that swings in a variety of textures.

As always, The Blue 4 Trio is:

Casey MacGill (Piano, Ukulele, Cornet, Vocal Arrangement Czar)
Mike Daugherty (Drums)
Matt Weiner (Bass)

"A Crooner of the highest caliber"

– Atomic Magazine

"You certainly can't accuse Casey MacGill of jumping on the bandwagon."

– The Swing Book

"Of the show's soloists,... only Casey MacGill, the ukulele-strumming band leader, has the kind of shrugged-off charm one associates with being cool in the swing era."

– New York Times
